Bather, Horse, Sheriff --- Parade

If you were in Lemon Grove near Main St. and Broadway Sunday night you probably saw the following: A man in a bathing suit driving a car with a horse tied on behind it and a Sheriff's car following.

The man was Pat Mowery of Spring Valley. The horse was Stormy of Lemon Grove. The Sheriff's car was providing an official escort.

Mowery, 28, of 9217 Jamacha Rd., was driving near San Miguel and Buena Vista at 10:30 p.m. when he noticed a reddish-brown horse running loose along the street. "The horse was all excited. She was nearly hit by several cars," Mowery said.

He took out after the horse on foot and after several attempts, managed to grab the mare's harness and stop her.

After calming her down, Mowery tied her to the back of his car and drove slowly to the Lemon Grove Sheriff's substation. Sheriff's deputies advised him to take the horse home and look for the owner the next day.

The deputies provided Mowery with an escort as he transported the horse to his residence.

"I'll bet I looked real silly. I had been to a beach party and all I had on was a bathing suit. It was a riot — you should have seen the people stare," said Mowery.

Monday morning, Mowery contacted the San Diego Humane Society which sent out a unit to take charge of the horse until an owner could be found.

State Humane Officer Ron Bugosh was on his way with Stormy to the San Diego Humane Society, when Mrs. Frederick E. Grant, of 2360 Main St., Lemon Grove, called the Society and informed them that her horse had runaway during the night.

Bugosh turned around and returned the horse to its owner.

A 'Tigar' In The Tanks

Raise the ire of a housewife and you've got nothing but trouble.

In a hard-hitting letter to Justice William Brennan, a couple of Lemon Grove housewives, representing the L. G. Republican Assembly, attacked the choice of a former Berkeley Law School student who was accepted as Judge Brennan's chief aide. The target is Berkeley Law school graduate Mike Tigar and the appointment would be effective next month.

Mary Ellen Young, president of the local Republican Assembly, and Valera Chenoweth, its secretary, fired off the letter in which they pointed out, that Tigar is active in youth groups deemed communistic by J. Edgar Hoover and by Attorney General Nicholas Katzenback.

They are further disturbed because they claim that law clerks to Justices of the Supreme Court are subject to regular government security or loyalty checks, as other government employes.

The women did a pretty good job of researching young Tigar. From the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities they wrote the following disclosures to Judge Brennan:

1. Tigar led an American delagetion to the Communist-controlled World Youth Festival at Helsinki in 1962. The festival was denounced as an anti-American Kremlin-directed affair by such liberal groups as the National Student Association and the Young Democrats.
2. While a student at the University of California, Tigar wrote for two Communist publications, People's World and New Horizons for Youth.
3. Tigar was honored as an outstanding "youth leader" at the anniversary banquet of People's World in February, 1964. In May of that year he played host at a fund-raising affair for the same paper.
4. On at least two occasions, Tigar addressed meetings of the Castro-financed Fair Play for Cuba Committee. He has been active in the drive to abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee.
5. Tigar was among the young radicals who organized the founding convention, in 1964, of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Attorney General Nicholas Katzenback have labeled the DuBois Clubs a Communist operation.
6. A subcommittee of the California State Senate last year characterized Tigar as a prime mover behind the so-called "free speech" uprising at the University of California. Although not yet a member of the bar, Tigar served as an unofficial legal advisor to Bettina Apthek-

Annexation Favorable For Lemon Grove Cites SD Councilman

San Diego City Councilman Mike Schaefer would like to see Lemon Grove become a part of his city.

Schaefer told Lemon Grove Men's Club members why last Friday at the weekly noon meeting at Brunswick Bowlero.

"I think the annexation of Lemon Grove to San Diego would strengthen both communtion, one which leads in police, fire and other services. Lemon Grove would benefit from improval of its services.

San Diego would be increasing its national standing and would be acquiring another fine residential area for our citizens."

He said he felt Lemon Grove would not lose its identity as feared by some. "La Jolla has quite an identity. So does Imperial Beach, Ocean Beach and other areas of the city."

Schaefer remarked that if Lemon Grove was annexed, citizens here would be running for council and other city jobs. "Lemon Grove would help run San Diego City. A Lemon Grove citizen might become mayor. The opportunities would be endless."

Schaefer outlined a series of steps that would have to be taken in order for this area to become part of San Diego City.

"A petition would have to be signed by not less than 25 per cent of the property owners within the territory proposed for annexation.

"The City would then prepare a feasibility study, which if proven advisable, would then be submitted to the Local Agency Formation Commission for review and recommendation. The proposal if then approved would go on to the Planning Commission where another approval would have to be made.

Notice Posted

If this came about, the City Clerk would post a notice of intention of annexation. A petities. Lemon Grove would join the 16th largest city in the nation would then be circulated among the registered voters in the proposed territory and not less than one-fourth would have to approve.

A valid petition would cause a hearing. If owners of one-half the value of the territory opposed the annexation, it would be dead. Otherwise, an election would he held. If the voters approved the annexation, it would then rest with the City Council to pass a resolution.

He added that it would probbaly take up to three years for the preceding measurers to be completed.

This week's speaker will be Bob Friedgen, office engineer at Helix Irrigation District.

Sups Kill Boney's Plan For Electing Chairman

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — Supervisor Henry A. Boney's plan for popular election of the chairman of the board of supervisors was, as expected, killed by the board Tuesday.

Boney contended that county-wide election of the chairman would focus more public attention on the function of the board with the possibility of better understanding.

It met the opposition of the other four board members, each of whom had issued a letter stating his opposition previous-

The others did not go along.

Supervisor Frank Gibson was the sharpest in his remarks against the plan. He said the county had been well served under the board-selected rotating chairmanship including the times of his own tenure as chairman.

He said the proposal would take away the honor of serving as chairman from district elected board members.

Boney suggested an alternate method Tuesday. He said the three San Diego districts could be consolidated into two, making them roughly the equal in population with his South Bay and East County district with the election of the fifth member as chairman.

Boney said that we wanted to make it clear that he would not be a candidate for the chairman if the measure was approved.

Boney moved to have the matter taken "under advisement." Cozens seconded the motion with the clarification that "under advisement" really meant that the matter would be tabled.

Boney agreed to that. He said he would, however, stand ready to support any other board member who changed his mind.

Boney's suggestion that the board member who got the highest number of votes be the chairman was passed over quickly as unrealistic.

At no time did the second district supervisor appear to believe that his plan had any real chance for success.

In another action, the board awarded an $85,942 contract for construction on Broadway from Sweetwater Road to Campo Road in Lemon Grove to M. L. Chilcote. The road will be reconstructed to 52 feet of traveled way to complete a link between state freeways.

Grove Man On Probation

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — Raymond William Meyer, 53, 7268 Waite Dr., Lemon Grove, has been placed on three years probation by Superior Court Judge Gerald C. Thomas after pleading guilty to grand theft.

According to the probation report, Meyer stole from the Unimart store at 6611 University Ave. where he worked since 1961.

He was ordered to make restitution of $850 and was fined $350. The restitution order may be changed if it is found that some of the material found at Meyer's home is his rather than the store's.

Meyers is now working at a service station in National City. The theft charge is the first felony on his record.

He was maintenance superintendant at the store.

'He Used Monkey Blood', Says 4-Year-Old In 'Head Start'

By June Fowler

"Would you tell me everything about this picture?," asked Dr. Douglas E. Giles of Lemon Grove.

"That little boy hurt his leg and the police help. He fell off his bicycle. The police had to wrap up his leg.

"That police got some stuff and wrapped up his leg to keep it from running blood on the side. He put some kind of medicine on it — some monkey blood.

"He cut the — he cut the piece of rag off so he could put it on his leg."

Typical Answer

The four-year-old's answer was typical of many told to Lemon Grove elementary school principal Dr. Giles during his post-doctoral research. This was the first of its kind ever conducted in elementary education at North Texas State University in Denton, Tex.

Dr. Giles has been on sabbatical leave from the principal's office at Lemon Grove for the past spring semester to evaluate Project Head Start. He just returned to California after being paid by the Lemon Grove school district while on leave for his research.

Sponsored by the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity, Project Head Start gives culturally deprived children a "head start" with pre-school enrichment activities before the first grade.

Summer Prelude

During the eight-week summer prelude to their first year in school, these children engage in activities that their upper class peers would normally enjoy, explained Dr. Giles. Field trips to zoos and farms with an introduction to art materials and classical literature are employed to make them culturally equal.

Dr. Giles has spent the past semester at the Fort Worth Dunbar Elementary School giving half the pupils Head Start experiences and comparing their reactions with the other half for higher oral language development.

"This program's main objective is to give them language experiences or experiences about which they can talk," said Dr. Giles.

Shy Children

In order to overcome mike shyness, the child relays by telephone what he sees in a series of eight pictures since he has been used to this form of communication in playhouses.

"Our theory is that Head Start kids will talk more about pictures of experiences they like to talk about," Dr. Giles said, "such as activities they had in Head Start."

Teaching children a respect for law was another objective of the project. "One out of 100 says 'It's a cop and he's gonna give them a ticket," said Dr. Giles of the policeman picture.

Comparison

"The comparison of the two groups covers many aspects: number and length of phonological units, sentences and mazes; vocabulary diversity and divergence; expressions of tentativenss; and use of mazes, noun-verb-noun-sentence patterns, partials and colorful and vivid expressions."

Although some children "won't say more than 20 words," Dr. Giles encourages them to voice their own thoughts instead of instructing them and shaping their opinions.

Some fatherless youngsters politely reply "Yes, ma'am," to Dr. Giles and other male interviewers because they are not used to the presence of a man. The group is therefore trying to get older boys and men to read or to just sit with these cases.

Proposal Written

As director of the Dunbar School program, Dr. Giles wrote the proposal for the government and arranged the proceedings with the school before conducting the interviews.

Head Start officially began as a nation-wide program last summer. Since then, the pilot project in Chicago has snowballed and spread to other cities in the country. Almost all communities have the project now or are awaiting approval.

"You can look in the paper almost daily and see where other communities had this approved," Dr. Giles said.

Culturally Deprived

In order to attain permission to carry out the project, an area must have a certain number of culturally deprived children. The district must also share part of the cost, but the community may provide the school building as goods and services for their contribution.

The UPPER ROOM

God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. (Romans 5:8)

When we were born, our mothers risked their lives in giving us birth. Every mother has risked her life when she experienced the birth of her child. To her, her child's life was worth more than her own life. She was willing to give her life, if need be, in order that her unborn child might enter this earthly life.

Jesus Christ laid down his life gladly so that each of us may enter into life eternal. This we may do through the experience He makes possible for us — the experience we call the "second birth." In this experience it is our part to confess our sins, and His part to cleanse us of sin and empower us to walk in the spirit of God who created us.

We had nothing to say about our physical birth, but this is not true of our spiritual birth. This decision is ours to make.

Prayer: Or Father, Thou who art best revealed through Thy Son, we praise Thee for Thy love which knows no limitations except those we ourselves set up. Cause us to become worthy of Thy limitless love as we seek to reveal Thy love as it abides in our hearts. In Christ's name. Amen.

Thought for the day: Christ one day gave His life for me. What will I give this day for Him?

Truth To Be Told

"Truth" is the subject of the Bible Lesson-Sermon to be considered at all Christian Science services this Sunday. One of the central themes will be Jesus' parable of the sower whose seed fell by the wayside, on stony ground, and among choking thorns — "but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundrerfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold" (Mathew 13).

Related passages to be read from the denominational text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include these lines: "The spiritual sense of truth must be gained before Truth can be understood. This sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving and meek. In the soil of an 'honest and good heart' the seed must be sown; else it beareth not much fruit, for the swinish element in human nature uproots it."

This Sunday

Sponsored by Starlight, "Funny Girl" is a bonus to the regular season which began last week with "Flower Drum Song" in Balboa Bowl, Balboa Park and continues with "Kiss Me, Kate" opening July 28, "Tom Sawyer" opening Aug. 11 and "South Pacific" opening Sept. 1.

Mrs. Valerie Post, president of Starlight, said good seats are available at the Civic Theatre box office for all "Funny Girl" performances. Mrs. Post said the Starlight box office has had numerous phone calls from people expressing regret that they would be unable to obtain tickets to "Funny Girl." Rumors that the show sold out here are erroneous and there are still plenty of seats left, she explained.

"Funny Girl" will be seen here at 8:30 p.m. July 25 through July 30.

Group Halts Action On Recall Petition

"Citizens United for Recall Election," last week announced it is cancelling a move to remove two members of the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District board of trustees because it is no longer necessary." The two members are Dr. William McCandless and Victor Walton.

The move to recall the board members, including Dr. Cyril Padfield, who resigned in February, was begun last year.

A spokesman said the petitions had been circulated because "citizens were alarmed at the apparent determination of three trustees to impose their will and political philosophy upon the district in a completely authoritarian manner."

Brady Returns To Monte Vista

It will be a return engagement for Robert C. Brady when he greets Monte Vista High students in September as their principal.

Brady, who was named recently to the post after Stan McClintic was appointed to a Grossmont Union High School District position, served as a counselor at the Spring Valley school from 1961 to 1964. The last two years he has been director of educational operations at the District office.

He also was on the staff at Mount Miguel High from 195 to 1961, serving as student body advisor besides regular teaching duties.

Brady and his wife, Ann, have three girls: Cathi, seven; Debra six; and Lisa, eight months They reside at 1749 Grossmon View Dr., El Cajon.

Brady graduated with a B. A degree in social science and music from Wisconsin State College in 1953. His Masters degree in secondary administration was from San Diego State College in 1960.

"I am thrilled with this opportunity to return to Monte Vista High School. I helped open this school five years ago and spent three happy and challenging years as a Monte Vista counselor," Brady said.

"I will do my very best to uphold the high quality educational program and positive spirit that has characterized the Monarchy. We cannot afford a standstill in education — the world is moving too fast. I will work with the staff, students and community to keep Monte Vista in the forefront of educational planning," Brady added.

While you are on your vacation trip this summer, the Automobile Club of Southern California suggests that you check the pressure of your tires each morning before leaving on a long drive.

Lemon Grove Is Cleaner

Lemon Grove looks cleaner today and you can thank inmates of the County Honor Camps.

Under a program involving the anti-litter people and the county road department, honor camp inmates are cleaning up county roads.

This week, a crew of five, under Doug Fordyce, county road department foreman, started at Encanto and worked north on both sides of Imperial Avenue to its juncture with Highway 94.

They gave the Lemon Grove plaza a particularly good going over.

Such crews will clean up all county roads, Fordyce said.

Reflections Of Washington

By Mike Kreger

(Editor's note: This column is written by a 16-year-old Mount Miguel High School senior, Mike Kreger. He was selected recently to spend two weeks in Washington D. C. as a guest of Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin. Following is the first of a series on his experiences in the nation's capital.)

As a student, working for two weeks in the offices of a Congressman in the nation's capital is truly an overwhelming experience. Each day presents unforgetable sights and opportunities.

Monday was spent traveling on an American Airlines 727 fan-jet to Chicago and then on to Washington. The weather back East is one of the many reasons California has the largest population of any of the states. The temperature has reached 100 degrees on numerous occasions and the natives call it "dry" when the humidity drops below 70 per cent.

One other peculiarity is the traffic situation. There are over 15,000 taxi cabs in the city. Also, the pedestrian laws are somewhat different here in Washington. Entering the street is a dangerous maneuver and it takes a light-footed pedestrian to make it to the other side.

The morning hours of Tuesday, our first full day at the office, were spent working in Congressman Van Deerlin's office. Running the ROBO- a kind of IBM player-piano type writer — greeting people into the Congressman's office, and clipping from local newspapers articles of interest to the Congressman, are the three jobs which take up most of our time.

Misguided Tour ?

In the afternoon the Congressman's two summer interns, Cort Casady and Steve Reiner, took us on a misguided tour of the capital's underground subways. There are over 16 miles of tunnels and subways connecting the capital. This was indeed an enlightening tour because we learned that it is very easy to spend three of four hours in these labyrinths without really going anywhere.

Wednesday, we got a day off to take a five and one-half hour tour of Washington D. C. and Arlington Cemetery. The purpose of this trip was just to get an idea of what we wanted to go back and see. That evening we dined at Washington's famous Italian restaurant — Harringan's.

Thursday morning we were back on the job, and in the afternoon we visited the F. B. I. where we learned, according to the guard, not only that crime does not pay, but also that someone besides your hairdresser knows for sure. Tuesday night we attended a reception held for the Chinese Embassy. Coming up are visits with Speaker of the House John McCormick, a tenative trip to New York and a definite trip to Gettysburg.

Outstanding Impressions

Right now I have two outstanding impressions of Washington: The first is, of course, with all of the things there are to see and do; the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier; the late President Kennedy's graveside; the Smithsonian Institute; the White House; Capitol Hill. These are just a few of the things we have seen. There are so many, many more it will indeed take two weeks to see them all.

The second impression is that of Congressman Van Deerlin and with the efficiency of his staff.

All mail which comes into the office is read the day it arrives. All replies are sent out within a day, not on a mimeographed form letter, but in a personal reply. I never knew a person could enjoy people as much as the Congressman does. He takes a sincere interest in his constituents and in his job. I say this out of gratitude, not obligation. It is my impression and the impression of his staff and fellow Congressmen.

Library of Congress

In a little over a week I will be home, but parts of Washington will come with me. It is truly a great city. Being in this city gives me a sincere confidence in our great country and in its democracy. I was standing in the gallery of the Library of Congress looking down at people of all races and religious beliefs sitting beside one another reading and studying. I have often heard it said, but now I know. This is the Land of the Free.

Yours sincerely,
Mike Kreger.

SV Man Returns Dog: Receives 'Reward'

by Norm Hutsell

Public apathy is said to be a serious problem. Reports tell of crime taking place while bystanders look on, giving visual aid only.

Romeo A. Metievier of 9016 Harness St., Spring Valley, is not apathetic — he likes to help. July 11, Metievier aided a man's best friend and received a "reward," assault with a deadly weapon.

He was in downtown San Diego at the time. Metievier observed a white toy poodle wandering aimlessly in the street at 5th and G. After the dog had nearly been struck by a car the father of two children picked up the dog and started searching for an owner.

Search Continued

Metievier was unable to locate an owner so he took the dog home in hopes of finding a lost-dog plea in the newspaper. The search continued until last Thursday evening when Metievier's wife read an advertisement asking, "Lost toy poodle, white male, 5th near Market and G, $100 reward, call ....."

Metievier an unemployed carpenter, called the number and was offered $125 by a woman for the dog's return. He declined, choosing to stick with the original offer.

Meanwhile, he had taken the dog to a veterinarian and had had him clipped and bathed. He also purchased a collar for the dog.

Metievier arranged to meet the owner at Valley Crossroads Bar in Spring Valley. He delivered the dog to the woman, who said, "Oh" There's my Pampsie."

He asked for the return of the collar. No mention was made of the reward money.

Victim Attacked

At this time, a man came behind the victim, grabbed him by his neck and placed a chrome hunting knife at his throat, ordering him to leave the area. The male suspect got in the car and drove off with the woman.

Metievier was left with no reward money, no collar and somewhat shaken.

"I guess that's their way of thanking me," Metievier said.

Vener Wants Restoration Of Merchant Marine Power

One of Sam Vener's chief objectives, if he is elected to Congress, from the 37th District, will be to help restore the American merchant marine to the prestige it once held, he said today.

"The government spends about $400 million a year on subsidies for shipping and ship building," said Vener, "but American ships carry less than 9 per cent of foreign trade cargoes, as compared with 50 percent in 1945. It is obvious that the taxpayers aren't getting value for the nearly half-billion dollars a year they pay."

Vener has been promised a place on the House committee for Merchant Marine and Fisheries, if he is elected, by Rep. James Utt, ranking member of the committee on committees.

"San Diego is one of the nation's finest ports, and also has important ship building facilities," Vener also said. "Constructive and positive action should be instituted to restore American shipping to its proper place in world trade, and since this is of utmost importance to San Diego, I propose to see that such action is taken."

Ode To a Village Reliefer

One of our more anonymous friends sent us a copy of a piece that ran in a newspaper. The name of the newspaper was not indicated so that will have to be as anonymous as the contributor. It appeared in a column titled "With Some Reservation" by Injun Woody. We will gladly give credit of authorship when we find out to whom to give the stuff.

THE VILLAGE RELIEFER

(With amends to that Longfeller feller)

Under a spreading welfare-tree,
The village reliefer sits;
He's chewing a cud of surplus plug
As occasionally he spits;
And the single thread in his addled head
Unravels Polly-Ticks.

His hair is cut, his shoes are shined,
His face is like the moon;
It ain't no sin to laff and grin
Or sleep all afternoon;
The Welfare Cat from the Employment Mat
Will bring some new Bread soon.

Week in, week out, from morn to night,
You can hear his measured snore,
As he lolls and waits for the barfly mates
To open up the door,
Where Barleycorn holds court 'till morn
And the sun creeps up once more.

And Headstart children coming home
Look in at the open door;
They love to see the flaming nose,
And hear the feller snore,
And see the vest where ketchup rests
Like chaff from a threshing-floor.

He goes on Sunday to the Hall,
And sits among the floaters;
To listen to the Bosses bawl,
Against the General Motors,
And afterwards they then condemn
Them Capitalistic Bloaters.

It sounds to him like Elbee Jay,
Singing in Paradise!
He needs must think of the weekly hay,
That do make it so nice;
And how one week with mein so meek
He did collect it twice.

Loafing — rejoicing — laffing,
Onward thru life he goes;
Each morning some new bottle-fly,
Lights upon his nose;
Nothing attempted, nothing done,
Just one continual repose.

Thanks, thanks to thee, my lazy one,
For the lesson thou hast taught!
That o'er the bars of mahogany
The Crepe Societie's wrought;
Thus on its pitted surface shaped
Each Socialistic thought!

'Tis from the Cradle to the Grove,
Born in a government bed.
Go thru life a government slave,
Raised on government bread.
Live in a government 2 by 4
And skim off the government honey,
Die in a government medicare home—
Get buried with fiat money.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I appreciate very much the editorial which you wrote, "It's Time to Help the Innocent." As a matter of fact, I think it's time to help all people with problems. As you know, I've served on the Governor's Commission for Helping the Handicapped, and a person who has made a mistake and has a record, a so-called police record, is just as handicapped as the preson who is without an arm or without eyes, except that the preson who has lost an arm or is blind may be able to get a job, whereas the person who is handicapped otherwise, will not be able to get a job.

In the old Hebrew philosophy there was the teachings of the Old Testament where the Lord said, "I will blot out your sins and they will be as clean as snow." If somebody makes a mistake in a democracy such as ours, people should be able to be rehabilitated. I agree with you that people who are not convicted of a crime are not felons and criminals, and there should be no criminal record. It should be wiped out the minute that they are declared innocent, because the law states that a person is innocent until proven guilty and declared so by a court of competent jurisdiction or by a jury of his peers.

Bureaucratic

This is a problem of police bureaucratic philosophy, where there is an attempt to herd people, place them under supervision, and put their noses into everybody's business. The thing that we have go to do is to learn to forgive and forget. Of course, if a man has a serious criminal record, it is a different thing. But these little petty things, like the problem we are facing today with the boys not able to get into the service, though they were willing to volunteer, because they had a few traffic tickets, should be abolished and we have recommended it to the federal government. These boys with the traffic tickets are boys, mostly, with great spirit and ability, and it needs to be guided and helped.

I thank you very, very much for bringing this thing to the attention of the people so that we can clear it up. As a matter of fact, I know the Governor is very much interested with this kind of thing and is working to solve this problem completely.

Max, the other thing that you say here is that there will be a sealing of the record. We don't want a sealing of the record. We want an expunging of the record of young people so that it can never be used again, because the minute that a young person makes an application for a job and says that his records have been sealed, you can imagine what the fellow down at the employment office will think. He will think about how many little and big devils are in that envelope and what kind of trouble the person got into.

What we need is common sense and we need to do this because we cannot afford to waste these people and their ability. Some of these young people are geniuses. I've had a number of them work for me. You remember the young couple or the three boys that you and Fred Hansen and Judge Hussey brought to my attention several years ago and that were placed on probation. I got them to read the book," Poor Boys That Became Rich." One of them is now a contractor doing a very good job in San Bernardino County. Two of them are working for the state, are very active in their church, have nice families, and haven't got into trouble since. What it takes is someone who will talk to them, guide them, and show them a kindly hand, and a kindly heart and the better things of life. What we need is motivation for our country. And with that, Max, I close.

God bless you and keep up the good work. You've got a helping hand in one who agrees with you on so many of these things that need to be done.

Yours truly,
Rev. Frank B. Gigliotti D. D.
Hu. D. C. Member of Governor's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth.

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your interest in the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce and our community.

The new officers and members of the Board of Directors accept the challenge and responsibility of representing the community, as you outlined in your installation address on June 27th.

We will face today's problems, and with the help of the membership, solve them.

We will work to have an organization with a membership large enough to reflect the majority thinking of the community.

We will regularly remind ourselves that the "purpose for which this corporation was formed is to promote the general welfare and aid in the development of a united community spirit and the advancement of commercial, industrial and civic interests of Spring Valley and its trade area."

We will be considerate of the worth of each individual's personal opinion and recoznize the vote of the majority.

We will conduct ourselves with dignity at all times, remembering that as members of the board of directors, the public image of the Chamber is our responsibility.

Because we know your interest is sincere we will welcome your criticism and suggestions in the coming year.

Sincerely,
Rosarie Graham
by H.T.
President, Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Project Headstart—

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare finances the governmental share of the program. Dr. Giles' research is the first grant that North Texas has received under this section of the 1965 Education Act. It is an extension of his dissertation and is supervised by his university sponsor, Dr. A. A. Daniel.

Interviews measuring language abilities also include names of friends, favorite games and childhood illnesses. An interesting aspect for Dr. Giles was the comparison of answers given him for his dissertation and post-doctoral research.

Million Dollars

While interviewing middle class children for his dissertation, Dr. Giles found their greatest desires were for a million dollars, a swimming pool and similar choices.

Replies offering a temptation for any interviewer to become emotionally involved came from the culturally deprived young ones. Many wanted only a dollar, a dress for Mother, their own bed and room or a nickel.

Head Start also offers the deprived youngsters a health program with medical check-ups, vision screening and general attention.

Dr. Giles has stressed the importance of complete objectivity in his research. Teachers and, of course, the children themselves are not aware of the purpose of his interviews. Parents are not informed to prevent their priming their children. Only the central offices in the school understand his project.

School Principal

Dr. Giles was an elementary school principal at Harlingen, Texas, from 1955 to 1956 before coming to Lemon Grove from 1958 to 1965.

Dr. Giles and his family have lived for the past semester in Lewisville where his wife teaches third grade. Mrs. Giles has also contributed to the experiment with her tabulation and analysis services. Their children, ranging in ages from 3 to 14, have been his "guinea pigs" in setting up designs.

A graduate of North Texas Laboratory School in 1949, Dr. Giles has attended the University of Texas, UCLA and Chicago Teachers' College North.

Movie Makers To Hold Meeting

The La Mesa Movie Makers will hold its monthly meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Porter Hall. The Hall is at 8424 Univeristy Ave.

The subject for the meeting will be how to make and photograph movie titles.

A film titled "Tahiti, Islands Under the Wind," will also be shown.

A member of the San Diego Amateur Movie Club, Ethyl Rivers, will show three 8mm films with sound titled "Buttons Makes News," "The Bath," and "Playmates."

The public is invited.

Griffen To Fill County Post

Harry Griffen, a board director for the Helix Irrigation District, last week was re-elected as treasurer of the San Diego County Water Authority.

Griffen was elected July 14 at a regular monthly meeting of the County Water Authority.

Griffen is a retired bank executive and has been treasurer of the organization since March 1961.

'Flower Drum Song' To Close Sunday

"Flower Drum Song," the musical comedy set in San Francisco's fabled Chinatown, is currently being presented under the stars in Balboa Park Bowl. The musical will close Sunday.

Performances are Thursday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

Premiering in Balboa Park Bowl July 28 will be "Kiss Me, Kate," a story of the trials and tribulations of actors and actresses.

The play is about a recently divorced couple who are starring together in Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

Two other hit musicals will be presented this year, "Tom Sawyer," Aug. 11-21, and "South Pacific," Sept. 1-11.

Social Security Hours Change

Office hours for the Social Security Administration at 32-11 Fifth Ave. have been changed to meet an increasing demand for service, said Arlyn B. Carr, district manager.

New hours are 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. every Wednesday and 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. on other weekdays. Wendesday evening hours were added for the convenience of those who work during daytime hours.

Carr mentioned that his office will no longer be open Saturday mornings.

At least five cars in addition to your own concern you while driving. They are the one ahead, the one behind, the one approaching in the opposite lane, the one ready to enter from a side street, and the one parked at the curb. You also must watch cars moving parallel with yours. Be prepared for any one of them to do anything without warning.

Employment Picture Glows

Employment at a record high and unemployment well below the year-ago level were among the highlights of the June economic picture in California as painted today by the departments of Industrial Relations and Employment.

Total civilian employment reached a high of 7,198,000 last month, up by 301,000, or 4.4 percent, from June, 1965, and 74,000 from the previous record set this May, according to Ernest B. Webb, director of industrial relations.

The over-the-year gain included growth in all major categories with the exception of agriculture and construction. Manufacturing accounted for three out of every ten new jobs added in the past year.

The number of jobless in California was 380,000 in June, 76,000 under the year-ago level of 456,000, announced Albert B. Tieburg, director of employment. About half of the year-to-year decrease in joblessness was among manufacturing workers, particularly from the trade and services industries.

Compared with May, unemployment was up seasonally by 43,000. Tieburg noted that joblessness typically rises during the May-June period as the number of students, graduates, and summer job seekers entering the labor market usually exceeds the job supply.

The civilian labor force, consisting of the employed and the unemployed available for work and seeking work, totaled 7,578,000 in June, compared with 7,353,000 in June, 1965.

Social Security Question Box

These questions and answers are presented by this paper in co-operation with the San Diego District Office of the Social Security Administration to inform people of their rights and responsibilities under the Social Security Law.

QUESTION:
My husband died in 1954. Although our boy was over 18 then, I understand he could have been receiving social security payments since January 1965 because he was still going to school. Can he still get these payments?

ANSWER:
Yes, he can. However, payment cannot be made as far back as January 1965 unless an application has been filed before the end of January 1966.

QUESTION:
Is it true that everyone who works for tips must keep a record of his tips now?

ANSWER:
This year every employee who receives cash tips amounting to $20 or more in a month is required to report them for quarterly tax assessment and social security credit. A written statement of the amount of tips received each month must be submitted to the employer on or before the tenth day of the following month.

QUESTION:
How can I get more information about reporting tips?

ANSWER:
Contact your social security office and ask for information or request a free copy of leaflet OASI-1965-6. The address of the San Diego office is 3211 Fifth Avenue, San Diego 92103 and the telephone number is 293-5550. You may also information about reporting procedures from the Internal Revenue Service.

PALM SPRINGS — At the age of 77, Harry Oliver is bubbling over with ideas which seem to have sprung from a fountain of youth he has discovered. A desert's world fair — a fun museum for desert lovers — these are only two of his latest projects and by the time this appears in print, the old Desert Rat will probably have come up with another few suggestions of what could be done to make life more worth living.

But strangely enough, the Old Mirage Salesman, Hermit of Thousand Palms, California, publicity agent for Pegleg Smith's Ghost, editor of the famous Desert Rat Scrap Book which makes you chuckle as you scan its ingeniously arranged five pages — which you can open in the wind and of which asbestos editions are supplied in case you don't make it" — the man who plants Pegleg Smith's leglegs in the desert so that gullible tourists can find them — which peg legs he, Harry made himself — this man is quite serious about his latest plans.

It started a couple of years ago when Harry fell ill in the cold of winter. Passing by Fort Oliver one day as we do once in a while, we found the old desert rat sitting by the fireplace, looking haggard and miserable. "You know" he said "this time I almost died—pneumonia. I'm just getting too old — and I'm all alone."

Hollywood Director

Since his sickness, Harry began to brood over how he would spend the rest of his days. In his youth, he was a top flight art director in Hollywood who won the highest praise and awards for his superb achievements in such pictures as "The Good Earth," Viva Villa," Seventh Heaven" and others. But then, he decided to move to the wide open spaces. The old adobe at Thousand Palms made an excellent fort from which to publish his Desert Rat Scrap Book, and it is from there that he poured forth his witticisms and cynicisms over the past many years.

But now, he wants to do something more permanent. He showed us an excellent bit of short fiction he had written. Anyone knowing and loving his little quips and anecdotes as published in the "Scrap Book" would not recognize the serious writer groping for a way to express his feelings. He has not sold the story as yet — but perhaps some day he will.

Meanwhile, he has begun to think what he could do with Fort Oliver. In the 1930's Harry had bought the land on which it stands for a mere $100, but for the young man this was then a lot of money. To build the house, he made the adobe bricks himself on Sundays when he was not working. A few years ago, when the Ramon Overpass over highway 86 was built, he told us that he thought the overpass should rather be called Fort Oliver Bridge, "because more boats pass under that bridge than under any other bridge in the world," meaning the boats towed by automobiles on their way to the Salton Sea or the Colorado. Harry Oliver has always been one who liked publicity even if this meant a joke or a tongue in cheek, but he is really in earnest about his old home which he loves dearly.

His plan is to enlarge the "fort" and turn it into a pioneer's museum, not the kind so frequently found in the desert rather, a place where visitors can get the feel of the day gone by with their serious moments and the funny ones as well

Purple Knight

"The Purple Knight of the Salton Sink is back on the job again," Harry crowed recently referring to the fact that he is in good health once again although he has just celebrated his 77th birthday. "And no matter where I am — here or in Hollywood — or whether I may not be anywhere above ground, the home of the desert's Don Quixote will live on and on."

Now, his latest idea is to promote a desert's world fair. The site for this fair should be somewhere in the desert where Riverside, San Diego and Imperial Counties meet, west of Travertine Point. Harry plans to plant palms on a ten square mile tract of land which would grow to maturity by 1975. Harry could very well put this idea across, for he has built and designed many a facinating movie set.

Whether he is serious or joking, Harry is always full of ideas. Whether he talks to you from atop the Palm Springs tramway or in his Fort Oliver. you will be a little wiser, a little happier because of your talk with him. Today, Harry Oliver has become part of the desert, without forgetting that he was once a top man in make-believe Hollywood.

Years ago, he wrote an epitaph for himself. "I wish to die and turn to dust," he wrote, "in some isolated part of the desert, and hope that years after, some rock-hound picks up my bleached skull, puts along side a purple whiskey bottle in his cactus garden of desert and ghost town relics. I would like it near a set of Desert Big Horn sheep horns, should have a jumping cactus growing through my eye socket and a sign scratched in a rusty gold pan, saying, 'This unknown old desert hermit's skull was found in a pack rat's nest in the Calicos — nearby was a canteen with a miner's pick driven through it. His story will never be known."

But such could not really be the epitaph for Harry Oliver, not for a man who at one time had been part of the glamor world of Hollywood. Perhaps a better way of greeting him would be to salute the man who has left an imprint in the sands of time, both in Hollywood and in the Great Colorado Desert and who successfully managed to combine the two worlds of which he is part.

Well-paying Positions Open For Two-Year College Graduates

This year's graduates of junior and community college two-year technical and semiprofessional programs won't have to look far for well-paying, rewarding positions, according to a survey by the American Association of Junior Colleges, (AAJC). In fact many of them did not even have to leave their campuses to sign up for positions in business and industry.

Many major business and industrial companies actively recruited personnel to two-year college campuses. say official of the colleges which responded to the AAJC survey questionnaire. Some 100 colleges in all sections of the country were polled.

Salaries offered, depending on the occupational field, in some cases exceeded $6,500 annually. with the average yearly beginning figure approaching $4,500 It was difficult to come up with an accurate average salary. according to an AAJC official, because of the great variety of technical and semiprofessional programs represented in the survey.

Food Service

"A career in food service management offers the best potential locally, with starting salaries in the $400 to $600 a month bracket possible for qualified graduates," according to C. Allen Paul, Dean of Technical Education at Grossmont College, "but associate degree holders in the electronic and police science fields are also able to demand a higher salary than do those in some of the less sophisticated occupations. Regardless of the occupation, however, the local demand usually exceeds the supply and employers are willing to pay well for qualified personnel," Paul concluded.

The variety of technical and semiprofessional programs available in two-year community colleges shows up clearly in the survey, with more two-year institutions beginning to move into the field. Grossmont College, for example, just awarded associate degrees to 233 students distributed as follows:

Dental assisting, 9; police science, 12; business administration, 19; accounting, 3; data processing, 14; secretarial, 9; drafting tehcnology, 6; merchandising management, 3 instrumentation technology, 2; technical writing, 1; laboratory technology, 2; forestry, 2; electronics technology, 6; and engineering, 2. The remainder of the graduates matriculated with general education or liberal arts' programs.

Occupational Fields

The above figures include only those students who completed the additional requirements necessary for an associate in arts or science degree and do not indicate the total number of students who successfully completed a coure in a specific occupational field. For example, 27 students completed the dental assisting course and are now employed as dental assistants; and 32 students, now all employed in the law enforcement field, completed the police science course this spring.

"The tehnical or semiprofessional program — sometimes known as an occupational program — is not new in higher education," according to Edmund J. Glaser, Jr. Exeutive Director of the American Association of Junior Colleges, "but it is receiving new emphasis today because of the increased demand for education and the need to prepare men and women for a more sophisticated world of work in this technological age."

The program in two-year colleges is designed to prepare young people, and adults as well, for highly skilled positions in business, industry, government, and other work.

Survey

The AAJC survey also shows another characteristic of the community college. That is, these two-year institutions usually try to offer technical and semiprofessional programs that fit the needs of the area served.

Thus, Grossmont College has emphasized and expanded its food service management, data processing, and electronics and instrumentation technology programs to meet the mushrooming demands for qualified personnel in these fields.

Another relatively new but thriving field that turned up repeatedly in the AAJC survey was that of law enforcement or police science. Grossmont College has a highly successful police science program that has been certified by the California Department of Justice Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training as exceeding the standards established under the regulations of the commission.

Police Science

The police science program at Grossmont College provides general eduation at the college level as well as training in law enforcement. Some cities now require that their police officers complete an associate degree program in police science as a condition of employment or promotion.

Computer programing and data processing courses also cropped up frequently among the colleges. Some of the colleges reported that they lose students from these programs before they graduate because of the terrific demand for such personnel.

The technical and semiprofessional fields present just as many opportunities for women, if not more, as for men. Even some of the fields such as technical illustrating, technical writing, data processing, and electronic technology that are normally thought of as "for men only" are attracting females.

Grossmont College also offers excellent occupational opportunities for women in such traditional fields as dental assisting, office management, secretarial services, laboratory technology, and food service management.

Ground Broken For New SDG&E Facility

Ground was broken for the San Diego Gas & Electric Company's new 21-story office building in downtown San Diego July 5.

Excavation of the block-square site between A and Ash Streets and First and Second Avenues will take from four to six weeks and will be done by Horn Construction Company of El Cajon. The earth will be used primarily as fill at the new sports arena.

Construction of the SDG&E office building will be started about Oct. 1 by a general contractor. The structure will be ready for occupany in February 1968.

The new building is expected to meet company requirements through 1995. It will be occupied by about 1,300 company personnel, including those in the company's present headquarters office building and engineering building and some from other locations.

The building will have approximately 320,000 square feet of floor space. The first two floors will cover most of the block-square site. A central tower will rise an additional 19 stories. The building also will have a two-level underground garage for company vehicles.

The main floor of the building will include a 400-seat auditorium for company presentations and a customer service area. As a convenience to motoring customers, the building also will have a drive-in pay window.

By sending 15 cents (in cash) to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, you can obtain a Table of Redemption Values, which will give the current value of any Series E Bond you own.
